

Article Overview

The price of bent wires for distribution boxes varies depending on material, diameter, quantity, and customization, typically requiring a supplier quote.

Factors Affecting Price

- o Material and Thickness: Wires are usually made from mild steel, copper, or stainless steel. Thicker wires or higher-grade materials increase cost .
- o Customization: Pre-bent or custom-shaped wires, including spirals or specific angles, are priced higher due to additional processing on CNC wire bending machines .
- o Quantity: Bulk orders reduce the per-unit cost, while small series or single pieces are more expensive .
- o Delivery and Lead Time: Custom bent wires may require 7-10 days for production and delivery, affecting overall cost .

Supplier Options

- o Schulte & Becker: Specializes in bent wire parts and wire spirals for industrial and electrical applications, offering small series and custom projects with flexible pricing .
- o McMaster-Carr: Offers a wide selection of pre-made wire bends with same or next-day delivery, suitable for distribution boxes, though prices vary by size and style .
- o Sunvik Steel: Provides high-grade binding wire that can be bent for fastening and reinforcement, with pricing dependent on wire thickness and length .
- o Next Day Steel: Offers custom cut and bent rebars, which can be adapted for certain structural or electrical applications, with pricing based on specifications .

Recommendation

To get an accurate price for bending wires for distribution boxes, it is best to contact suppliers directly with your specifications, including wire type, diameter, length, and quantity. Suppliers can provide a custom quote based on your project requirements .
