Top Serbian suppliers for electrical distribution boxes include Mins Elektro, Pera Elektro, ALING-CONEL, and Elektro Centar Nais, all offering certified, high-quality products and technical support.

Key Suppliers

1. Mins Elektro Mins Elektro specializes in power engineering and industrial automation, producing low-voltage panels for power distribution, protection, and control. They also provide design and construction services for HV and MV substations, ensuring compliance with IEC 61439 standards, making them a reliable choice for industrial and commercial projects . 2. Pera Elektro Founded in 1991, Pera Elektro designs and manufactures electric meter boxes and electrical energy measurement equipment. Their products are certified and suitable for larger residential buildings, offering reliability and compliance with industry standards . 3. ALING-CONEL ALING-CONEL manufactures a wide range of electrical installation materials, including switches, socket outlets, and communication devices. Their products are known for quality and durability, suitable for both residential and industrial applications . 4. Elektro Centar Nais As the general distributor of Klemsan products in Serbia, Elektro Centar Nais provides distribution boxes, electrical connectors, cable trays, and automation systems. They offer technical support and ensure products meet high standards of safety, energy efficiency, and long-term performance . 5. MAK TRADE GROUP and CIP d.o.o. These companies also supply distribution boxes and electrical accessories, with experience in production, distribution, and sales across Serbia. They cater to both industrial and commercial needs .

Considerations When Choosing a Supplier

- o Certification and Standards: Ensure products comply with IEC or local Serbian electrical standards.
- o Technical Support: Suppliers like Elektro Centar Nais provide guidance for installation and system design.
- o Product Range: Companies such as Mins Elektro and ALING-CONEL offer a broad spectrum of panels and accessories for various voltage levels.
- o Reputation and Experience: Established companies with decades of experience, like Pera Elektro, are preferable for reliability and long-term support. These suppliers represent some of the most reputable options in Serbia for high-quality electrical distribution boxes, suitable for industrial, commercial, and residential applications.
